

“Following the 9/11 Attacks, Canadian health officials forwarded a report to the WHO by Canadian-led Global Health Security Action Group”

The following is the official report published by the GHSI from their own website. Highlights have been added, but is otherwise reproduced here, verbatim.

GHSI Background

OVERVIEW: GLOBAL HEALTH SECURITY INITIATIVE (GHSI)

Following September 11, 2001, former United States Secretary of Health and Human Services Tommy Thompson suggested that countries fighting bioterrorism should meet to share information and coordinate their efforts to improve global health security. On November 7, 2001, Canada's Minister of Health hosted the first Ministerial Meeting in Ottawa, Canada to discuss global health security. Attending, in addition to Canada, were Ministers / Secretaries/ Commissioner of Health and senior health officials from the European Commission, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, Mexico, the United Kingdom, the United States and the World Health Organization.

Ministers called for concerted global action to strengthen public health preparedness and response to the threat of international biological, chemical and radio-nuclear terrorism. They agreed to forge a partnership to address issues of protecting public health and security globally, and to work together in the following areas:

1. To explore joint cooperation in procuring vaccines and antibiotics.
2. To engage in a constructive dialogue regarding the development of rapid testing, research in variations of vaccines, and our respective regulatory frameworks for the development of vaccines, and in particular smallpox vaccines.
3. To further support the World Health Organization's disease surveillance network and WHO's efforts to develop a coordinated strategy for disease outbreak containment.
4. To share emergency preparedness and response plans, including contact lists, and consider joint training and planning.
5. To agree on a process for international collaboration on risk assessment and management and a common language for risk communication.
6. To improve linkages among laboratories, including level four laboratories, in those countries which have them.
7. To undertake close cooperation on preparedness and response to radio-nuclear and chemical events.
8. To share surveillance data from national public health laboratories and information on real or threatened contamination of food and water supplies along with information on risk mitigation strategies to ensure safe food supplies.

The GHSI was envisaged as an informal group to fill a gap for like-minded countries to address health issues of the day, such as global health security. The Initiative was not intended to replace, overlap or duplicate existing fora or networks.

In December 2002 at their Mexico City Ministerial Meeting, Ministers broadened the scope of the GHSI mandate to include the public health threat posed by pandemic influenza.

Since its inaugural meeting in Ottawa (November 2001), the Ministerial Forum has met in London, UK (March 2002), Mexico City (December 2002), Berlin (November, 2003), Paris (December 2004) and Italy (November 2005). Japan hosted the 2006 Ministerial Meeting in Tokyo on December 7, 2006. The United States will host the 2007 Ministerial Meeting.

A Global Health Security Action Group (GHSAG) of senior officials was established by Ministers to develop and implement concrete actions to improve global health security. It also serves as a network of rapid communication/reaction in the event of a crisis.

Current GHSI Working Groups/Networks are:

- Risk Management and Communications Working Group
- Pandemic Influenza Working Group
- Chemical Events Preparedness
- The Global Health Security Laboratory Network

In addition to the work by these groups, there are projects underway in the following areas:

- Field Epidemiology and Outbreak Investigation
- Public Health Aspects of Radiological and Nuclear Threats
- Research Collaboration
- Capacity Building and Training for Emerging Infectious Diseases

Comments:

So, here we have yet another example of elite working groups, advisory boards, and think tanks being established to advise governments on how to “protect the public” and “critical infrastructure” from “potential threats” (by enacting new laws, creating agencies and limiting individual rights and freedoms) arising from the fears generated by 9/11; the full facts of which have NEVER been properly investigated. Apparently they did not see a need for “Global Health Security” prior to 9/11, but that event provided them with a pretext or justification. Notice, however, how “pandemic threats” were then tacked on a year later. Is there any evidence that Osama was planning to release a pandemic flu upon us? No. The only possible justification for this addition was the “Anthrax Scare” which took place several weeks after 9/11. The source of the Anthrax, however, has long been known to have originated in U.S. Military biological weapons labs. That is NOT conspiracy theory. It is fact!

This is just one more example of how many groups, individuals and corporations have empowered themselves with a False Flag / PsyOp event, and who are now making huge amounts of money, while gaining legitimacy and power, allegedly to keep the public safe and secure from what is an imaginary, or greatly exaggerated threat, and ultimately, to justify putting sovereign nations and free individuals under the firm control of a handful of people with a self-serving, globalist agenda. And it is just one more reason to investigate 9/11.

Meanwhile, however, a number of independent scientists and researchers have come to the conclusion that the H1N1 flu virus outbreak that we are being fear mongered with is a "lab creation". This particular reassortment of Human-Swine-Bird flu could not have occurred in nature, anymore than carbon fires could have brought down the WTC, and it is being used as a pretext for a massive power grab by the WHO, the CDC and governments to mass vaccinate their populations (in violation of criminal law, constitutional rights and freedoms, and our God given right to security of the person), with a noxious, dangerous and potentially lethal substance. Needless to say, this is also generating huge profits for Big Pharma, and may well be part of a world wide eugenics and depopulation program by the elite. Please note that the Pandemic Level 6 was declared on 6/11/09 (Hence: False Flag Flu, or Swine-Eleven).

It also appears to be all nicely timed to coincide with the engineered, controlled demolition of the the US Dollar, and blow out of the world economy.

Those who understand that 9/11 was a "False Flag Operation", need to investigate H1N1 and the Vaccine Agenda, see who is behind it, and recognize what is potentially at stake here. This is an attack against Humanity – against each and everyone of us – and against future generations.

There is no such thing as a "safe vaccine". Nor do vaccines work. Vaccination is the New World Order religion. It is NOT science. Studies with data going back a 100 years or more show that virtually all the major diseases were in steep decline before mass inoculations started. They are just taking credit for stopping diseases that were already declining due to improved living conditions, cleaner water, better diets and hygiene. In fact, the introduction of toxic vaccines have been responsible for virus outbreaks and horrendous side-effects and illnesses, including cancer, as well as deaths and growing infertility around the world. This, combined with the re-introduction of unhealthy, chemical filled foods and GMO foods are the real WMDs of this world that are making us sick, infertile, causing major health problems from which Big Pharma prospers, and of course, causing the death of our species.

Use the skills that you have attained in investigating 9/11 and the bogus War on Terror to research H1N1, vaccines and the mass vaccination agenda. And then use the info sharing skills you have used over the years in spreading the information across the Internet and especially from hand to hand (Be the Media) to inform people about the facts, issues and dangers.

The only thing standing between tyranny and freedom is YOU!

We must stop this madness. Time is of the essence.
